Britain, where he made a study of aided land purchase in Ireland with Irish land registration and administration. Holman urged this adoption. The industry of occupiers has increased, farm houses and farm buildings have improved; the tendency on Industrial Relations which deals with interests in land has decreased with the land problem. He was in the tendency to gather and divide land charge of the field studies made by large has become almost dormant; the commission of the occupiers has improved.

"In state aid of land purchase," he said, "there is a feeling of contentment; the immediate hope of the prevalence of law and order that did American farm tenant, for by that not exist in his landlord and tenant

DEPOSED CHIEF OF POLICE PROMISES TO TELL OF OUTLAWRY

By G. L. Daily Leader
Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 29.—Secure in the belief that his last chance to "lose" the Tulsa county grand jury is lost to him, it is reported here today, that Foster Norman, deposed chief of police, is preparing to become a lot of converses for and in anticipation of such an interesting interview with the attorney general of the state. It is freely predicted that some of the vacation announcements of the week will disclose higher-ups in the boozey tribe of Tulsa that will shock even the lesser lights of the traffic from whom the identity of their prospective visitors has in instances been guarded. Five arrests have been made, three of them believed in the councils of the democrat machine of the city and county, with branch houses in bordering counties and with a hold on the situation the new charge the state administration has found it necessary to sever. It is openly reported here, now, that politics and the rest of the party is out of the present clean-up.

Bob Allison, Leo Green and George Overton, now under bond are harassed, according to the gossip, with having absolutely dominated the political situation in Tulsa and Tulsa county and having with some assiduity gotten a re-enactment on Creek, Payne and Pottawatomie counties, and with having put in his best for the county where now were elected for some extent by the ever-present United States government. To clean out this control of the democrat stronghold, it is charged, the state is prepared to here to put a crimp in the machine.

"What a contrast this affords against the American movement towards tenancy!" the speaker said. "In Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, New York, Ohio, and Pennsylvania tenant farmers have increased by 121,167, while the number of home owning farmers has actually decreased by 42,315. But in Texas and Oklahoma we find about the saddest disillusionment of American hopes for home ownership. Forty years ago Texas had 65,468 tenant families. This number comprised 37.6 per cent of all the farms in the state. In 1910 the tenant farmers had increased to 219,371, which made 54 per cent of all the farms in the state."

"In Oklahoma 54.8 per cent of the state is in the hands of tenant farmers and in the 47 counties where tenancy is highest the percentage runs to 68.12. If we take the 25 most prosperous states of the Union—the states that produce the greater part of the cotton, corn, dairy, wheat and fruit stuffs of the nation, we may easily estimate 2,400,000 homeless families who have not survived the competitive pressure for land ownership. In these same states the concentration of land ownership is progressing at a speed that is no less than tragic.

"In the southwestern states, the rate of tenant increase over the home owning increase is two to one. In the middle western states of Illinois, Kansas, Nebraska, Ohio and Iowa the tenants are becoming more numerous than home owners."

"America can not evade this growing land question. The American people must recognize that ours is the last of the first class countries to recognize the need of fixing upon a sound land policy. How to redistribute the population upon the land how to care for the incoming immigrants how to readjust the relation of city to country must be the great issues of the imminent future."

logical basis for granting eternal bliss to the soul, but that the gradual arriving of the soul for perfection with many bodies, one after another, as a medium of expression, is a logical needs, for that soul will gradually attain, in the course of time, the position it seeks when it is re-born with the supreme emanation which cast it off in its beginning to work out its own individuality and return, through constant striving and by means of all the experiences it has in the many earthly lives it lives, to the way which cast it off.

DR. MAHR CONDEMNS O. C. HOSPITAL ACTION

Oklahoma City, Nov. 26.—An eminent physician adopted this week a resolution by his colleagues here to file any lawsuit in this city from to-night any patient admitted with pulmonary tuberculosis. Dr. A. C. Mahr, former health officer and now director of the study Anti-Tuberculosis League. The unscrupulousness of the authorities by neglecting such a law is plain when it is noticed that the persons are daily entering and leaving the hospital facilities without any account of their health. To declare that persons with tuberculosis shall have no medical facilities is wrong in principle and indefensible in the light of scientific knowledge of the disease.

It is the most cruel thing that has been done within my knowledge to the people who have a tremendous load. Miss Carrasco is a member of the Bellair Beach, N. Y. colony of winter visitors and suffers from tuberculosis in the hospital, and numerous other patients suffer from the same disease.
